

CRUEL

And Inhuman Tortures Resorted to By Officers.

General Miles Report on Philippines Has Just Been Made Public—Concentration Camps In the Islands Condemned.

Washington, April 27—Part of the special report of General Miles, based on his recent inspection in the Philippines was made public today. The report is dated February 19. Hints are contained in it that army officers have resorted to cruel and inhuman tortures of natives. Concentration camps in the islands are condemned and attention is called to the sale of food to natives confined there at a good profit. In going from Calamba to Patangas, in November, General Miles noticed, he says, that the country appeared devastated and that the people were depressed. At Leipa, a party of citizens met him and complained of harsh treatment. They said they had been concentrated in towns and had suffered by the water cure and that one man, a respected citizen named Vincento Luna, 65 years old, while suffering from the effects of torture, was dragged from his house which had been set on fire and was burned to death. These atrocities, General Miles was told, were committed by American soldiers.

Regarding the concentration, citizens claimed that the people had been crowded into towns and in one instance 600 were confined in one building. A physician with the party said he was ready to testify that some of the 600 died from suffocation.

In commenting on the incident Genl. Miles says: "I have no reason to disbelieve their statements; in fact the instances of torture in the case of the man Luna, are confirmed by other reports."

General Miles refers to other alleged cases of atrocities, saying that in Cebu it was reported and published in November, 1902, that Captain Samuels and Lieut. Foster, had committed similar atrocities. He also heard a report that at Laoag, two natives were whipped to death.

At Tacloban, Leyte, the general heard that Major Glen had ordered Lieutenant Caulfield to take eight prisoners out into the country and that if they did not guide him to the camp of the insurgent, Quison, he was not to bring them back. The prisoners either did not or could not do as directed. One of the men who had a son among the Philippines of Lieutenant Caulfield's command, was spared, but the others were separated into two parties, and while tied together were murdered by being shot or bayoneted to death. A pretense was made, the report says, that they were killed while attempting to escape.

General Miles says that at Galbaog, Samar, it was reported that several men had been subjected to the water cure. In this connection he says: "I saw three men who had been subjected to this treatment. One was the president of the town, Mr. Rosales, who showed me long, deep scars on his arm, which he said were caused by the cords with which he was bound, cutting into his flesh. Jose Borgia and Padre Jose Diazos, who also stated they had been subjected to torture said it was done by troops under command of Lieutenant Gaudet, Tenth cavalry."

Further along in the report General Miles refers to what he terms "Glen's brigade."

He says: "It appears that Major Glen, Lieutenant Conger and a party of assistants and native scouts were moved from place to place for the purpose of extorting statements by means of torture and it became so notorious that the party was called 'Glen's Brigade.' Whether it was possible for officers to be engaged in such acts without the personal knowledge of the general upon whose staff they were serving at the time, namely, Brigadier General Hughes I leave for others to conjecture."

"These facts came to my notice in a casual way and many others of similar character have been reported from different parts of the archipelago."

It is however most gratifying to state that such atrocities have been condemned by such commanders as Generals Lawton, Wade, Sumner, Lee, Baldwin and others.

"I found that with certain officers the impression prevails that such acts were justifiable and I felt it my duty in order to correct such erroneous and dangerous impressions and to prevent the possibility of such acts being committed in the future, which must impair the good name of America and bring discredit to our service for all time, to address to the division commander a letter of instructions."

General Miles report then turns to the acts of concentration by General Bell. He claims they were in direct violation of the law. The law was also violated, he says in handling large quantities of rice which were sold at a profit. General Miles says the people in the camps were considered prisoners of war, but were compelled to buy food from those who held them at a large profit. The transaction was a large one, according to the general, involving 21,000,000 pounds of rice and other supplies at a cost of more than $300,000.

An extraordinary feature of this transaction, he says, is that the action was disapproved by the division commander, who turned the matter over to the civil authorities and that it has been carried on under an act of the Philippine commission. Judge Advocate General Davis in a letter to the Secretary of War, replied to the acts complained of in Miles' report. Davis says the incidents have been made the subjects of special investigations. In some instances there have been conducted by courts martial.

General Davis discussed at length the distribution of rice.

This is a matter, he says, which has been considered by the department. The rice was purchased by the subsistence department. Profits in the transactions were turned into the insular treasury and fully accounted for.

FEAR

Of Violence at the Hands of Mafia Causes New York Jurymen to Disappear Monday.

New York, April 27—Fear of violence at the hands of Mafia caused a general disappearance of the coroner's jury which was to hold an inquest this morning into the death of Madonna, whose body was found stuffed in a barrel, and for whose murder thirteen Italians were taken into custody. Coroner Sholer called the inquest at 10:30 but at that hour only a few of the jurymen of those drawn to serve on the case were present. It appears that when the jurymen learned that they were to serve in a Mafia case, half of them disappeared.

State Senator Thomas L. Rubey, president pro tempore of the state senate, will succeed Lee.

COURT

Leaves Treatment of Negro Franchise to the State—The Alabama Case is Considered.

Washington, April 27—The Supreme Court today declared in the case of the negroes of Montgomery county, Ala., who complained that under the new constitution their names were not registered on the voting list, thus excluding the black race from voting, that the Circuit court was right in dismissal of their bill. By this decision the treatment of negro franchise is left to the state.

MOB

Lynches Negro In Illinois

A Young Boy Hanged To Nearest Tree

ATTEMPT TO ASSAULT LITTLE GIRL AGED TEN.

AROUSED THE NEIGHBORHOOD

Offender Begged for Mercy But His Captors Strung Him Up and Riddled Body.

Thobes, Ill., April 27—An unknown negro aged about 17 years was lynched by a mob of angry farmers near the village of Santa Fe Sunday for attempting to assault the ten year old daughter of Farmer Branson Davis and this was followed by a general onslaught upon a colony of negroes living in tents who were engaged in bridge construction work. The tents were burned and many negroes were shot, but so far as known none were killed. Hundreds of shots were exchanged but no whites were hurt.

Branson Davis lives one mile east of Santa Fe, a small village near here. While his 10 year old daughter was in the barnyard today the negro accosted her. She ran, but he seized her and her screams brought her mother to the rescue. The negro fled. Officers were notified and were soon in pursuit. News of the assault spread among the neighboring farmers and resulted in an angry mob starting in search of the assailant. The negro, meanwhile, had been captured by officers and was being hurried to Santa Fe when the mob of angry farmers was met. A fight followed during which the farmers secured the negro. He confessed to the crime but begged for mercy. Without a word the mob started with the prisoner toward the new bridge being constructed across the Mississippi river, where he was hanged to an oak tree without ceremony or delay. After the body had dangled in the air a few moments it was riddled with bullets.

The officers endeavored to disperse the mob but their efforts were useless. Preparations were made for a raid on the colony of several hundred negroes employed on bridge construction work and living in tents near the bridge. The negroes saw the mob coming and opened fire. A fusillade followed and the whites fired with effect as many of the negroes were shot down. None of the mob was injured and it is not known how many negroes were wounded. The mob pressed forward notwithstanding the steady fire until the negroes turned and fled toward a nearby wood, taking the wounded with them. The mob then fell upon the tents and burned them. After accomplishing a general work of destruction the mob dispersed. Extra police were sworn in and tonight the village is under heavy guard. Excitement is intense. Santa Fe is a village in the extreme southwestern portion of Illinois near the Chicago and Eastern railway.

WEDDING

Of Miss Thaw to the Earl of Yarmouth's Take Place at Pittsburgh Monday Afternoon.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 27—All the preparations are completed and the marriage of Miss Alice Thaw to the Earl of Yarmouth will take place this afternoon at 1 o'clock. The church doors will be thrown open to the invited guests at 2 o'clock. The elaborately arranged musical program comprises 25 numbers and will require at least an hour and a half in rendition.

The Earl of Yarmouth, who married Miss Thaw, this afternoon was served with a writ of attachment for a debt of $1,500 which he borrowed in England in 1902. He was painfully embarrassed, but accepted the writ and said he would make answer in the required time of 30 days.

RACE

Between Auto and a Buckeye Lake Car Bringing the Sunday Papers to Newark.

The Columbus Dispatch is the only metropolitan paper, which has a chance to compete on Sunday mornings with the early edition of the Ohio State Journal, which is brought to Newark on a special car on the Buckeye Lake road. The Journal pays $250 a month for this car, and the Dispatch cannot get its papers on it, but this did not deter the Dispatch on Sunday from making a successful effort to land its Sunday morning papers in Newark at an early hour.

A nine horse power automobile was pressed into service and the papers left Columbus at 3:30, the Journal leaving a half hour later. The special car arrived in Newark at 6 o'clock, and 20 minutes later the Dispatch's automobile steamed up to U. O. Stevens' place on the East Side.

The papers were practically in Newark as soon as the Journal with its special car, and considering the condition of the roads, the run was remarkable.

Next Sunday morning the Dispatch expects to be in Newark before any other Sunday morning paper, if the roads are in any kind of condition for automobiles.

SCENE

Of a Wreck Takes the Appearance of Battlefield.

Eleven Men are Killed While Four of the Twenty-five Who are Hurt are Expected to Die—Kansas Wreck.

Buffalo, Kansas, April 27—(Bulletin)—By the wrecking of a northbound Missouri Pacific stock train and a work train last night, eleven men were killed and twenty-five were injured. The dead are Greek and Italian laborers with the exception of Peter Fry, an American, who was boss on the work train.

Misunderstanding of orders is given as the cause. Of the injured perhaps four will die. The work train was backing into town after a day's labor and was proceeding at good speed when it crashed into the stock train. The flat cars and caboose were reduced to kindling wood and the scene of the wreck took on the appearance of a battlefield.

THREE

OUT OF THE EIGHTEEN WHO WERE EXAMINED

Were Accepted by the Navy Department—The Newark Recruiting Station Closed Monday

Seamen Malloy, Burke, Williams and Myers of the U. S. S. Columbia, United States navy, who have had a recruiting office for the navy in the basement of the court house, left on Monday afternoon for Wheeling, where they will remain a week. While they examined 18 applicants all but three being rejected for color blindness, imperfect development or other physical shortcomings. The three men who were accepted were from Columbus and two were taken as landsmen and sent to Philadelphia, the other an apprentice going to Newport, R. I., Sunday.

There are 8 parties of eight men each at different points in the United States, recruiting 3,000 men for the navy. These recruits are divided into three classes, apprentices from 15 to 18 years of age, who are sent to Newport, R. I.; landsmen, from 18 to 21, who go to Philadelphia, while mechanics go to New York.

ADDRESS

Delivered at Sunday Afternoon's, Y. M. C. A. Meeting by Judge Brister.

Mr. Griggs Next Sunday
Judge E. M. P. Brister delivered an excellent address before the Y. M. C. A. meeting in Taylor Hall Sunday afternoon. He took for his subject, "Life's Motive Power."

Every life is actuated by some supreme and governing motive—some dominant ambition—some controlling purpose. With too many is the mere acquisition of things that are ephemeral or the attainment of honors that are fleeting is all that is sought. Neither worldly pleasure nor sordid ambition is a worthy motive power for an immortal soul.

Christ in one of his sublime utterances gave us the motive power of his unparalleled life—"To do the will of Him that sent me; and to finish His work."

Nothing less than this—to do God's will and to work together with God in redeeming the world—making it better, happier and wiser should be the aim of every Christian man.

Nor does this test apply any the less to the non-Christian, for at the last all will be judged by the same standard.

The special musical numbers consisted of a duet by Mrs. Bernha Downey and Mr. Eberole and the solo, "My Angel Mother's Face," of which Judge Brister is the author, and which Miss Dooney sang most beautifully.

Next Sunday afternoon the Association, its members and friends are to have the pleasure of hearing an address by Mr. H. H. Griggs of Cleveland. The more announcement that Mr. Griggs will be here should insure a large attendance.

ARREST

OF SCHLITZ SAID TO BE THE RESULT OF JEALOUSY.

A Soldier Belonging in the Columbus Barracks Was Found at Grace Wilson's House.

William Schlitz, who left the Columbus barracks last January, and has lived in Newark with Grace Wilson, 29 Railroad street, since that time, was arrested in Newark last week by Marshal Fred Vogelmeier and Deputy Sheriff Linke at the Wilson woman's house, and taken back to Columbus by a detail of soldiers from the barracks in that city. It is said that on several occasions men were sent to Newark, but returned to the barracks without reporting Schlitz, but another admiral of Grace Wilson at the barracks, who was jealous of the favors shown the former, reported him with his arrest and detention as a result.

MRS. ROTH

FEELS CERTAIN HER HUSBAND IS DEAD

Denies Emphatically That She is Authority for the Statement Made in Columbus Recently.

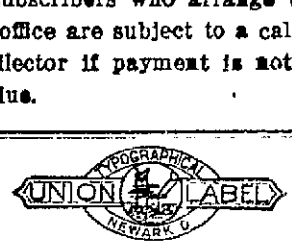

Mrs. Charles Roth, who is the wife of the Columbus soldier who was reported missing, and supposed to be murdered early this month, called at the Advocate office today and denied emphatically that she was authority for the news sent from Columbus that Roth was a deserter and was supposed to be living at the present time. Mrs. Roth said she had no doubt but that her husband was dead, as he had no reason to desert from the army. He had the money to buy his release, and always held a deserter in detestation, and she does not think that under any circumstances he would have been guilty of this offense.

BRICK

Fell Upon Henry Jones' Head Making Several Stitches Necessary to Close the Wound.

Henry Jones of Madison township, met with a very painful accident Saturday noon which might have resulted more seriously than it did. Mr. Jones had been attending market and was leaving for home. He was driving through the alley by the side of the old opera house building when a brick was dropped, presumably by one of the workmen repairing the roof of the building, striking him on the head. The cap was cut by the sharp edge of the brick and a large gash was cut in his scalp. He was rendered partially unconscious and was taken to the office of Dr. J. N. Stone who took several stitches in sewing up the wound. The accident was not as serious as was at first supposed.

MOTOR COACH RAILWAY.

Automobile Principle to Be Tried on a Short Line in England.
A fresh development in the automobile principle on railways is described by the London Times. It is to be introduced on the short branch line owned jointly by the London and Southwestern and the London, Brighton and South Coast railways between Fratton and Havant, Hampshire.
A locomotive superintendent has designed a steam motor coach, the engine and carriage of which are on the same pair of four wheeled bogies. The total length is fifty-six feet. The boiler is of the vertical type. It is possible to drive a train at either end. There are two classes of compartments, carrying forty-two passengers altogether. The engine generates steam rapidly.
The various railways are watching such experiments as this keenly, with a view to economies. A single carriage automobile train would be wonderfully useful when a special is desired for a single person or a party. A few motor coaches could be kept ever ready at various important stations.

An Engineer's Strange Request.
An engineer on a Kansas railroad has made a request to be allowed to run faster than sixty-five miles an hour because a jack rabbit has been making fun of him on his run. A jack rabbit is noted for its speed, and this particular jack, it seems, has been in the habit of coming out of his burrow, just south of Olathe, Kan., when he hears the flier coming early in the morning, looking up and winking at the engineer and then, throwing back his long ears, racing alongside the track. He seems to know that the engineer may not run ahead of his schedule, so he keeps up only a fair speed, but at that he often gets on the track in front of the locomotive and, putting up one foot to his face, spreads out his toes and makes a sign, perfectly familiar to all small boys, which is expressive of the highest scorn and derision. This is a true story and vouched for by a Kansas paper.

An Evangelist's Novel Plan.
At the meeting of the Methodist Ministers' association of Indianapolis the other day a novel method of deepening the interest of church members and sinners in the cause of religion was suggested by Dr. L. W. Comstock, an evangelist of New York. Says the Chicago Record-Herald: He proposes to have a number of large oil paintings which he will use in his work. One of the pictures described by him will represent Christ teaching in Gethsemane. Another will represent Noah building the ark, with a great company standing around ridiculing the work. Many points in the Old and New Testaments are to be illustrated, and the evangelist's addresses are to be based upon them. Dr. Comstock believes interest can thus be awakened.

PROPERTY VALUES

For Taxation a New Weapon in Hands of Political Bosses.

How Corporations are to Escape Just Payments that Will Increase Other People's Burdens--Recommendation for Board of Review for Newark City.

Columbus, Ohio, April 27.—Municipal officers of the state are just beginning to realize the tremendous power of the law known as the Board of Review act, passed winter before last ostensibly as a punitive measure against Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland. It was introduced by Senator Nicholas Longworth, of Cincinnati, the Republican leader of the upper branch, who at the time frankly stated that it was a political bill. The measure could not have passed but for the holding of a party caucus, and even then it came near being defeated in the House of Representatives.

By the terms of this law the power of appointing Boards of Equalization for cities was taken from the hands of Mayors and Councils and placed with the State Board of Appraisers and Assessors, made up of the Secretary of State, Auditor of State, Attorney-General and State Treasurer. The officials are empowered to name for each city, upon the request of the Auditor of the County in which it is situated, a Board of Review, which is to take the place of the Board of Equalization of the past. There are to be three members, appointed for one, three and five years. By the terms of the law the Boards are to be partisan, consisting of two Republicans and one Democrat. They are amenable only to the state board, which can at any time, "within its discretion" remove a member and appoint his successor.

The salary of the members is not to exceed $250 a month, the amount to be determined by the County Commissioners. But the board may appoint a chief clerk and six assistants as well as six messengers, and fix their pay, which the County Commissioners must allow as well as the incidental expense of operating the department of equalization. No discretion is left in this instance.

At the time that the bill was introduced it was explained that it was left optional with County Auditor to apply for a board for any city within his county, and the bill reads in a way that justifies this statement. At the extraordinary session of the General Assembly last year the power of naming Boards of Equalization was taken from Councils and Mayors and absolutely no provision was made for any such bodies. Every effort to provide the necessary machinery was defeated by an unseen power operating through Governor Nash and his advisors. Some weeks ago State Auditor Guilbert issued a letter to the County Auditors of the State in which he requested that they file their demands for the appointment of these Boards of Review. He was backed in his declaration that the optional law had now become mandatory by an opinion of Attorney-General Sheets, who pointed out that it was the only way in which equalization of property could be secured this year.

It was then that the people of the state woke up to the fact that the municipalities had been deprived of the power of passing upon their own taxation, and that it had been securely lodged in the hands of four State officials, who when elected were never designed by law to perform any such service.

It is expected of these four men that they shall select Boards of Review for the 71 cities of the state, and shall hereafter supply the membership whenever it shall become reduced through death, removal, resignation, or expiration of term, for the law distinctly states that this power is lodged with them and no other officer.

Since the publication of the letter there has been a perfect stream of petitions pouring into the offices of the members of the State Board. It is now agreed that the Republican "organization" is to name the members in cities where there is not an absolute boss, the minority representation going to some fellow who calls a Democrat in order to betray his party and flag.

Another scandalous thing in connection with the clicking thing is going on is the fact that a number of the State Board are candidates for office.

Auditor Guilbert seeking another term and Attorney-General Sheets being after the nomination for Supreme Court Justice. Muttering concerning the method of appointment comes from all parts of the state, the danger having already been sniffed by the farming. Here in Columbus, the Republican papers have taken the alarm and are insisting that the interests of the small taxpayers be safeguarded by the appointment of reliable and honest men. Of the method of appointment one of the papers says this significant thing: "It is difficult to perceive how the political feature of the matter is entirely eliminated in a board of review. In the first place the state officers must depend on recommendations. The most natural source of recommendations of this sort is the politicians. It is plain, therefore, that unless the appointing power resist with determination all political influence nothing has been gained by substituting a Board of Review for the old Board of Equalization."

Regarding the power that the new board will possess the party organ of the city sounds this warning, and follows it with the declaration that it does not propose to remain silent if the board fails in its duty: "To value for taxation the property on the most powerful combination of capital on the same basis as the poor man's cottage is a fundamental duty. The new Board of Review must be composed of men above the reach of influence. "There have been sinister rumors that great pressure is being brought to bear, not only upon the County Auditor, who has the power to recommend, but upon the Appointing Board, to secure the selection of some unfit men for this board. If true, this is against public policy and inimical to the material interests and growth of the city of Columbus.

"If interests other than those which should appeal to the taxpayer have joined in urging the appointment of a man in whom the community has no confidence public officials should assert their individuality and rise above such pressure." The genesis of the law better explains its power for good and evil than columns of explanation. In Cleveland, the Board of Equalization appointed by Mayor Johnson added some millions of dollars to the returns of the street car, electric light and gas companies of that city, but through the assistance of the County Auditor, then Republican, and the State Board, this increase was taken off. It was announced that the new board would restore the valuation, and as a Democratic Auditor was elected in the interim, it seemed as if this program would go through. It was then that the Longworth law was drafted by the attorneys of the street car and other quasi-public corporations in Cleveland and sent here to be enacted. Immediately after its passage the Republican Auditor appointed a board composed of two violent partisan and one Democrat, who has opposed every ticket, local, state and national, of his party for the past five years.

There is no mistaking the fact that the valuation of the property of the individual has become a political weapon in the hands of the Republican bosses. Corporations will escape a large portion of just taxation and the individual taxpayer will be made to pay the consequent deficiency. All that will be necessary for the corporations to do will be to make deals with the Republican majorities on the Boards of Review, and the people will be made to make up for the loss on the tax duplicate caused by the escape of these corporations from their just proportion of taxes.

Under the law and at the request of the Auditor of State, County Auditor Potter of this city made application for the appointment of the Board of Review for Newark. Realizing that the Board is to consist of one Democrat and two Republicans, Mr. Potter recommended the appointment of Louis P. Schaus. The wisdom of his selection will be universally conceded by men of all parties.

It is understood that the two Republican members have not yet been agreed upon by the party "organization." The Republican County Central Committee recommended the names of S. F. Van Voorhis and A. H. Jackson. But the Republican City Committee recommended E. S. Randolph and A. H. Rickert, and besides this disagreement several other applications have been made that are backed by individual "bosses" of the party in Newark.
It can therefore be readily seen that there will be much confusion and uncertainty in the appointments of the Republican members of the Board on the plan for their selection that is to be adopted. In no case will the people have any voice in choosing the men to be appointed.

THE MINNESOTA A NATIVE GIANT

Largest Ship Ever Built in the United States.

CLEAREST CARRIER OF CARGOES.

She Will Carry 9,000 More Tons Dead Weight of Cargo Than Either the Cedric or the Celtic—Her Staterooms Are Large and Airy—A Nursery Is Fitted Out for Children.

The greatest ship ever built in the United States, exceeded in size by only two ships in the world and yet the greatest cargo carrier of them all, which has just been launched from the ways of the United States Ship Building company at New London, Conn., is the steamer Minnesota, built for the Great Northern Steamship company for its Pacific ocean passenger and freight trade, says the New York Evening Journal.

The Minnesota is six feet deeper than either the Cedric or the Celtic, which alone surpasses her in size, and she will carry 9,000 more tons dead weight of cargo than either of these ships and six times as much cargo as any ship now on the Pacific coast.

The contents of 125 trains of twenty cars each can be stowed away in her gigantic holds, and her iron skin is one-third thicker than that of the Cedric and twice as thick as that of the battle ship Oregon.

The Minnesota is of the intermediate cargo and passenger type and built under Lloyd's survey. She is 620 feet long, 73 feet 6 inches wide, 36 feet high to upper deck, 88 feet high to captain's bridge, 177 feet high to top of mast, is rigged as a four masted schooner, with pole masts, and has five continuous decks, named as follows: Orlop, lower, tween, main and upper, all plated with steel. The four decks which are not continuous are the forecastle, promenade, bridge and boat, and on top of all comes the captain's or navigation bridge, making nine decks in all.

The vessel is divided transversely into thirteen water tight compartments and four water tight machinery compartments. The double bottom is six feet deep and extends across the whole bottom of the vessel. This space can hold about 4,000 tons of water ballast whenever required and is divided into twenty-eight water tight compartments. Altogether the hull is divided into forty-six water tight compartments.

One hold in the ship is devoted to carrying frozen meat, its capacity being about 2,500 tons. An ice making tank supplies cold water to drinking fountains throughout the ship. The bunkers are located above the boilers. The ends of the bunkers are sloped in such a manner that the bulk of the coal will gravitate through shoots and be deposited on the firing platform. The capacity of permanent bunker is over 4,000 tons, and a reserve bunker is fitted contiguous to the boiler room, having a capacity for about 2,000 tons of coal. The anchors and chains are the heaviest ever made. The heaviest anchor weighs about 8 tons; the lightest about 2 tons. The weight of the cable is over 30 tons, and the whole equipment, anchors, cable and wire, weighs about 130 tons.

This ship will make long journeys. The distance from Seattle to Honolulu is about 2,300 miles. Honolulu to Yokohama about 2,700 miles. The new vessel will steam at a speed of about fourteen knots per hour, and, being so large, will be very steady in the worst weather.

The first cabin passengers are located in houses on the upper promenade and bridge decks. The staterooms are large and airy, having artificial as well as natural ventilation to each. Several suit of rooms are arranged with sitting room, bedroom and bathroom.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Laundrying Lace Curtains.
With the spring housecleaning the question of laundrying lace curtains usually comes to the front. City people ordinarily send them to a cleaner because there is nowhere to spread them when the family overflows every corner of a flat, but where there is room they are nicely done at home. Shake any dust thoroughly from the curtains and then soak them over night in plenty of cold water. In the morning rinse them out of several waters before putting them into suds. After doing this put them in hot suds and wash them by sopping and squeezing. Wash in a second tub of suds, then put them into a tub of boiling water. After an hour rinse thoroughly. If you wish to have them very white, slightly blue the last water, but if an old look is desired have the water slightly colored with black tea. Dry them in the open air, then put them through thin starch and also through the wringer. If you have frames, put the curtains in them, but if you have not put some old sheets on the floor and tack the curtains on them, being careful to pull them straight and to have each point drawn out and pinned down. Two persons are almost necessary for this part of the work, as upon the careful stretching and pinning depend the perfect hanging and finished look of the curtains. Two or three curtains may be placed together. Two days' time is required to dry them when they are doubled in this manner.

Utilizing a Pantry Door.
Not having any too much room in my pantry, which was originally a hall cupboard, I utilized the door in the manner shown. The smaller articles have racks as hangers. For the larger ones small hooks are better. These can be bought for a few cents per dozen and do not damage the wood as does a nail. The lids are held in place by fine wires stretched across the panel to small tacks driven in the edge of molding.

The little pocket above the stewpan holds my bread tickets, for living is high in this town, and we find that bread for two is cheaper bought than made. Above this is a sheet of cardboard, which I call my fruit list. I may tell of it in another article. Just below the gem pan is a little book made of writing paper, in which I write my tested recipes that have proved worth a second trial; just below this a thick pad, with pencil attached, which receives jottings of things needed in the home. The cardboard sheet below the grater has a memorandum of weights and measures, which I find handy in following some recipes.

When the pantry door is closed, all this is out of the way and out of sight. I much prefer this plan to that of having everything in the kitchen. Of course it would not do for a person who does not keep the black washed off of the utensils. I rarely put any utensil save my teakettle over an open stove hole, so have no trouble in keeping everything immaculate.—May French in American Agriculturist.

Rheumatism Is Not a Skin Disease.

Most people have an idea that rheumatism is contracted like a cold, that the damp, chilly air penetrates the muscles and joints and causes the terrible aches and pains, or that it is something like a skin disease to be rubbed away with liniment or drawn out with plasters; but Rheumatism originates in the blood and is caused by Urea, or Uric Acid, an irritating, corroding poison that settles in muscles, joints and nerves, producing inflammation and soreness and the sharp, cutting pains peculiar to this distressing disease.
Exposure to bad weather or sudden chilling of the body will hasten an attack of Rheumatism after the blood and system are in the right condition for it to develop, but have nothing to do with the real true causes of Rheumatism, which are internal and not external.
Liniments, plasters and rubbing will sometimes reduce the inflammation and swelling and ease the pain for a time, but fail to relieve permanently because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism because it attacks it in the blood, and the Uric Acid poison is neutralized, the sluggish circulation stimulated and quickened, and soon the system is purified and cleansed, the aching muscles and joints are relieved of all irritating matter and a lasting cure of this most painful disease effected.
S. S. S. is a harmless vegetable remedy, unequalled as a blood purifier and an invigorating, pleasant tonic. Book on Rheumatism will be mailed free.

NEWARK CALLED ON TO LEND HELPING HAND

Big Fire in the Business Center of Columbus Sunday.

Hundreds of Newark People View Ruins--Loss a Half Million--Fireman Loses His Life--List of the Losses and Insurance.

About four o'clock Sunday morning Chief Louis Bausch, of the Newark Fire department, received a telephone message from Columbus telling him of the big fire that was raging on High street and asking for assistance in preventing the spread of the already disastrous conflagration. Chief Bausch asked by whose orders he should prepare to go to Columbus, and the operator replied that it was the request of Columbus Fire Chief Louer and Director C. C. Philbrick. The operator also told Chief Bausch to order a special train from the B. & O. to transport the Newark apparatus, but the latter told the Columbus officials to do this, which was done from that city without delay. The Buckeye Lake road also offered to furnish transportation, but soon a special was made up by the B. & O. and run to the loading platform at the Second street crossing. Chief Bausch, Captain Dennis Foley and Firemen Roberts and Quinn prepared to make the trip and the Ahrens engine was prepared for its errand of helpfulness.

A man on a bicycle was sent to the residence of Councilman Louis Spees, chairman of the fire committee, and he was notified of the situation and his formal consent was secured to make the trip.

The engine was taken to Second street and about loaded on the waiting train when word was received from Columbus saying that the fire was considered about under control. About 1000 feet of hose was to have been taken along.

Chief Bausch went to Columbus on the 10 o'clock Buckeye Lake car and was an interested spectator of the now successful efforts of the Columbus department.

He was given permission to go inside the fire lines and was extended every courtesy by the police and firemen on duty at the big fire.

William Kneeland, Edgar Roe and Guy Watkins, ex-members of the Newark department, accompanied Chief Bausch and also viewed the fire from the standpoint of old fire fighters.

Every car on the Buckeye road to Columbus, up to evening was crowded with people from Newark going to the scene of the fire. Many who got there about noon or in time for the ball game, went out and saw Columbus defeat Indianapolis.

It is estimated that nearly 300 from Newark went to Columbus.

The Advocate early in the day received bulletins about the big fire and hundreds of people read them as they hung in the Advocate windows. Incidentally it may be said that no bulletins were posted elsewhere in the city.

DO YOU GET UP

WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Columbus, Ohio, April 27.—Fire destroyed $500,000 worth of property on High street, and in the center of the business district. Captain D. S. Lewis, of the fire department, lost his life. He was entombed by falling walls.

The fire was one of the most destructive that ever visited the business district of Columbus. The business houses destroyed are among the leading wholesale and retail enterprises in the city.

The flames first broke out in the saloon and supply house of Bott Bros., at 141 North High street, shortly after 2 o'clock. The entire Brunson block, a six story building, was quickly gutted, and the Union Clothing company was next to go into ashes. The Mithoff building, north of Bott Bros., was next to take fire.

While the firemen were fighting the fierce flames in the Thomas, Mithoff and Brunson blocks, flames broke out in the Kirby ten cent store, half a block to the south on High street. The Sheldon Dry Goods company, wholesale, was across Long street from the Union Clothing company, and next to the block occupied by the Kirby store. The firemen succeeded in keeping the flames confined to the Kirby building one side and the Thomas block on the other, and the big wholesale house escaped the flames although a big loss will be sustained by water.

The fire started in the basement of the Bott saloon, where the boilers to heat the Brunson block were located. However, it is the opinion of the fire department officers that electric light wires started the fire at this point, as well as in the Kirby block a few hours later while the firemen were engaged fighting the big fire.

Captain Lewis of No. 11 House, lost his life by going into the Munsey building, a frame structure. He was not missed for an hour, and then it was recalled that the last seen of him was in the Munsey building, just before the brick walls of an adjoining block fell.

One of the most thrilling features of the fire was the rescue of Philip S. Nation, a lodger, from a room enveloped in flames on the fourth floor of the Brunson building. It was supposed all the occupants of the building had been got out, but Mr. Nation, it appears, was overlooked. The water tower was playing a stream into the flaming front of the building when the figure of a man in underclothes suddenly appeared at the window of the fourth floor, raised the sash and waved his hands. A shout of horror went up from the crowd, as rescue seemed out of the question. The firemen, however, quickly started to raise an extension ladder. Several times the man ran back into his room and returned with an armful of clothing, which he threw to the street. Just as the top of the ladder touched the window he appeared in a Derby hat, and, before the firemen could reach him, started to climb down. When he reached the ground he was in a state of collapse. Nation is a Northside grocer. Relating his experience, he said:

"I hardly had time to be frightened. I am a very sound sleeper, and I only awoke when the smoke filled the room and choked me. I sat up in bed and heard the fire engines and the crackling flames around me and ran to the hall door.

"The moment I opened the door a sheet of flames flared in from the hallway and I knew escape in that quarter was cut off. I slammed the door shut and ran back to the window, but the heat of the flames broke the glass front of the door and the fire seemed to fairly follow me in.

"I broke out the window and shouted and waved my hand to the crowd below. As soon as I heard the answering shouts which swelled above the crackling of the flames I felt I was safe.

"I then threw as much of my clothing as I could hastily gather out of the window and waited for the ladder.

"I can tell you I had some pretty anxious moments while they were getting the ladder off the truck, for those flames were licking up the floor under my feet. The hall door had burned out and volumes of smoke suffocated me.

"Finally I heard the crowd cheer lustily and looking down I saw the ends of the ladder slowly creeping upward and I knew I was saved."

COURTING ROOM IN FLAT.

Complete Suit Provided Free For Housemaids in a Chicago Building. John Lavery of Chicago has set aside a complete suit free in his new twenty flat building for the special use of the maids employed by the flat dwellers, says the New York World.

The maids' apartment on the first floor, with sunlight exposure, is to contain nine sleeping rooms, a reception room, a library and bathroom. The maids will be mistresses of a home which they can call their own, subject to no other restrictions than those commonly thrown around a household where the inmates are exclusively of the fair sex.

If the experiment succeeds, the domestic help question will have taken a long stride toward solution. The consensus of opinion among the girls is this: "It is a splendid system. I know the girls will appreciate it, for many of them have had to be content with any kind of a couch, and there are many houses where they were refused permission to take baths."

"While the object is to give us girls more liberty, we appreciate the movement from another standpoint. We have been allowed to receive our friends, but now we can see them without being embarrassed by having to ask them to step into the kitchen. And yet we will be within reach of our employers, for there is a bell in our rooms by which we may be summoned at any time."

"Now good digestion waits on appetite, and health on both." If it doesn't try Burdock Blood Bitters.

CROKER AT WANTAGE.

How Tammany's ex-Chief Lives In England.

EARNED $116,000 IN A YEAR.

His Former Overseer Says His Late Employer Does a Big Business With His Race Horses and Dairy—Enjoys Life on His English Estate and Keeps Informed on Politics.

How Richard Croker lives at Wantage, in England, was told the other day by his former overseer, Alexander S. Innes, who arrived at New York on the steamship Ivernia to take charge of the estate of Colonel James Lascelles, a California turfman, says the New York Evening World. He obtained the position through M. Croker's influence.

"Mr. Croker often spoke of returning to America," said Mr. Innes, "but he had no definite date in mind, and I do not think he will be on this side before the fall of 1904. He is busy just now supervising the erection of a $35,000 addition to his stables. The work will not be finished until October, and Mr. Croker believes it will not be properly done unless he is on the spot."

"Aside from that, Mr. Croker is very busy looking after his string of racers. He has thirty thoroughbreds in training, not one worth less than 2,000 guineas. The best horse in his stable cost him 4,000 guineas when he bought it from Lord Rosebery three months ago.

"Mr. Croker has been very lucky with his horses. Last season his earnings were $115,000. Few men on the English turf topped that figure. A good bit of that is eaten up by expenses. For instance, he has ten stable boys all the year around, paying them 13 shillings a week. The head stableman is paid 35 shillings and his two assistants 20 shillings. The veterinary and his assistant receive $100 and $50 a month respectively. Altogether there are 130 employees at Wantage. Most of these work in the dairy and creamery plant and the stables.

"I see the statement has been made here that the dairy was a losing venture and had been abandoned. That's a mistake. It is paying handsomely. There are fifty cows, and the milk is sold in the neighborhood, the butter and cream being shipped to London. Mr. Croker runs a model dairy. Many American establishments would be put to shame by the cleanliness of his plant.

"Over every person and thing on his estate Mr. Croker keeps a sharp eye. He lives quietly. He is up with the lark and off for a ride or a walk before breakfast, rain or shine. It is this exercise which keeps him in capital health. He laughs at the reports in the American papers of his physical ailments. He is a member of several London clubs and frequently runs up to the metropolis for a week or two. During the racing season he attends all the important meetings in England and France. This entails much traveling, but he enjoys it, as Mr. Croker loves racing above all things.

"Does he still keep track of American politics? Well, he has the New York papers regularly, and nothing much escapes him. I was the only one of his employees who had ever been in America, and he often chatted with me about things on this side. He takes criticism in a good humored way and especially enjoys the American cartoonists. He has a fine grasp, too, on English politics and knows everything going on in a political way about Wantage, but of course he shows no active interest."

TO IMPORT PARIS' CHARM.

How Noted Sociologist Will Study Ways of French Capital.

D. W. H. Tolman, head of the New York Institute of Social Science, recently arrived at Paris, charged by Helen Gould to study the "charm of Paris," in order to attempt to introduce into American cities the qualities of life which have given the French capital its fame, says the Chicago News. Mr. Tolman's vague mission is creating much amusement and perplexity among leading Parisians, to whom he has brought letters of introduction. Some of them advise one course, others another.

Mr. Tolman, however, has evolved a scheme for attaining the end of his quest. He intends to live for a certain period with the laboring class, another with the artists, another with the boulevard crowd and another with the fashionable set. After all this he thinks that he will be able to define and help to introduce into New York and other new world cities the elusive grace of Paris life.

How Sheridan Paid a Debt.

No one knew better the power possessed by a really polished compliment than Sheridan, and on innumerable occasions during that rather stormy theatrical management of his did he extricate himself from a difficulty by means of one. A good instance is the following: An English nobleman who, after the manner of other of his peers, had married a beautiful actress once applied with much dignity in the greenhouse to Mr. Sheridan for the arrears of her salary and vowed that he would not stir till they were paid. "My dear lord," said the impetuous manager, "this is too bad. You have taken from us the brightest jewel in the world, and you now quarrel with us for the little dust she has left behind her." The nobleman immediately burst out laughing, and over a bottle of wine the debt was canceled.—London Standard.

The Marine Engine Is Alive.

All good old chiefs loved their engines and come to believe in them. To all of us assistants and "prentices they were not the mere machines that they appear to the outsider, but quite human. Every noise they made, every motion, every trick they had we knew and had the reason for it. Kipling speaks of the marine engine as the most sensitive thing man ever invented. There's a sort of cold, lifeless, though admirable, precision in a telescope and a fine regard for details in a phonograph, but the marine engine is alive; it strains and labors desperately; it groans with rheumatism in its joints, screams with the pain of tight bearings, staggers and plunges against the oncoming seas, gets out of breath and runs away with itself, trembling like a frightened horse.—Benjamin Brooks in Scribner's.

Gloating Effrontery.

Uncle Absalom Ashley was much given to relating old and broken-down jokes. An acquaintance of his, thinking to cure him of his practice, one day gave him a copy of "Joe Miller's Best Jokes," with the remark that he "might find something new in it."

The next time he met the old gentleman he asked him, "Well, uncle, what do you think of that book I gave you the other day?"

"I don't know," replied Joe Miller, indignantly, "I know he's a thief. He's got hold of a lot of my best stories and printed 'em, consarn him!"

BABY'S DEATH

WAS NOT CAUSED BY BURNS AS REPORTED

Little Son of Mr. and Mrs. Keenan of Maholm Street Passed Away
Sunday Evening.

Donald Wallis Keenan, the 15 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Keenan, died at the parents' home, 179 Maholm street Sunday night at 8.19 o'clock of cerebral congestion.

The child burned his hands Friday evening by falling against a stove and his gaiter rose to a point Sunday night that the little boy had died of the injury received. Dr. Baker, the attending physician, said on Monday, however, that the burns had nothing to do with the little boy's death.

The funeral will take place from the house 179 Maholm street at two o'clock Tuesday a noon, and the interment will be made in Cedar Hill cemetery.

PATENT

ON WINDOW SHADE TRIMMER IS GRANTED

Messrs. G. W. Steffee and M. J. Beene
—Machine Intended for the Retail Dealers in Shades

Messrs. G. W. Steffee and M. J. Beene of this city, who were at one time connected with the Allison company of this city, have just been awarded a valuable patent on a window shade trimmer. Manufacturers of window shades make standard sizes, not taking into consideration the sizes of windows, consequently window shade dealers are compelled to cut shades to fit their customers' windows, which has been a very slow, tedious and expensive process. With this new machine dealers will be able to cut shades for customers in a few minutes and at a very small expense.

J. A. MILLER

Prominent Resident of Mary Ann
Township Died Early Monday at Age of 71

Mr. Jacob A. Miller, one of Licking county's best known and most highly respected men, died at his home in Mary Ann township, about ten miles northeast of Newark at an early hour Monday morning. The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been announced.

Mr. Miller was aged 71 years, and the cause of his death was senile exhaustion and debility, there seeming to be no organic disease. Mr. Miller had been married twice, and leaves four sons and one daughter by his first wife and one son by his last wife. He was born and brought up in Mary Ann township, where he had lived all his life, and by his industry and frugality had amassed a handsome competency. Politically, Mr. Miller was a Democrat, and religiously he was a consistent member of the Disciple church, to which he was devotedly attached. He was an intelligent, honorable, upright man, a kind and loving husband and father and a good citizen. His death will be sorely deplored, not only by his immediate family but by a large circle of acquaintances and friends who knew him and loved him.

MISS WIGGS' PRIZE STORY

(Copyright, 1902, by T. C. McClure.)
"A letter for you, Miss Wiggs," said the postman, smiling.

Little Miss Wiggs extended a trembling hand.

She carefully cut the end of the envelope with the scissors and drew out the letter. It was very brief:

"The editors of The Story Magazine take great pleasure in presenting the enclosed check as payment of the prize offered for the best short story submitted in their recent contest."

That was all. But a dozen pages of praise could not have pleased Little Miss Wiggs more. It was not a large sum of money, to be sure, but to her it meant a great deal. Ever since that day three months before when she had mailed the story and the required subscription money she had waited and hoped with all the fervor of her little body.

There had been little sewing for her to do of late, and she had watched her income dwindle away with growing fear. She had never thought of trying to write till Cordelia Brown one day brought her a copy of The Story Magazine to read. Cordelia was seventeen years old now and well along in high school, but she had never forgotten Miss Wiggs' kindness of former days.

When the girl was gone, Miss Wiggs picked up the magazine. Almost the first page to meet her eyes was an advertisement offering a prize for the best short story submitted before a certain date. It was then that the idea of trying to write a story first occurred to Miss Wiggs.

She had a tale of the first settlers in her memory handed down from mother to daughter, as such stories are. Moreover, she possessed a good education, a clear mind and plenty of leisure. Nothing was more natural, therefore, than that Miss Wiggs should write a story.

In due time the story was completed. Miss Wiggs copied it in her best handwriting and, inclosing the dollar demanded as one of the conditions of the contest, mailed it to the magazine. Then she told Cordelia what she had done and even read her the first draft of the story.

When she had finished, Cordelia shook her head. "I am sorry, dear Miss Wiggs," she said gently, "but I am afraid the story will hardly suit them." Then, with all the kindness she could command, she explained to the woman the needs of the magazine. It used little else than love stories, she said, and for that reason the editors would scarcely take the trouble to examine manuscripts of another character.

"But why not try again?" she finished brightly. "Our subscription has expired, and you can send in our renewal with the story. Please do, Miss Wiggs."

So Miss Wiggs did try again. Somehow as she sat in the darkened parlor a plot came to her, an idea for a love story, unique, clever, interesting. She told it to Cordelia, and the girl clapped her hands joyously.

"Oh, it's ever so good, Miss Wiggs," she said. And when the story was written and read to her she gave it exactly the same praise. And now the story had won the prize.

The back door opened softly, and Cordelia entered the house. It was some time before she discovered Miss Wiggs in the parlor. As the girl entered the room the woman looked up with a smile lighting her thin face.

"See, Cordelia," she said, with childish glow, "I won the prize."

Cordelia did not smile. Drawing a chair close to Miss Wiggs, she opened the magazine in her hand.

"I am going to read you a story," she said slowly, "that was printed several years ago."

Miss Wiggs smiled at the girl lovingly as she listened to the first few words. Then the smile gave way to a look of wonderment that in turn changed to one of pain. When the story was ended, she looked up at the girl with tears in her eyes.

"You don't think, Cordelia," she began hesitantly.

Cordelia sprang to her side and placed an arm caressingly around the woman.

"Dear Miss Wiggs," she said quickly, "perhaps it was merely a cruel device or it may be you once read this story and then forgot it till it came back to your memory, apparently an original idea."

They sat silently in the little parlor till twilight fell. Miss Wiggs bravely kept back the tears, but the heart that Cordelia held trembled ceaselessly.

The next day's story appeared on the front porch, and Miss Wiggs opened the door for him. He handed her a long blue envelope.

"My story of the first settlers," she explained to Cordelia, holding the envelope of The Story Magazine on the envelope.

She tore it open and slipped out the manuscript. A little she came with it, "Read it, Cordelia," she said. "My eyes are not very clear today."

"The editors of The Story Magazine," read Cordelia, turning the enclosed manuscript with much regret. Well, it was not so bad as it is, the whole story was so clever, and for that reason the story is pronounced."

When a sudden step on Cordelia's floor arrested her.

"Miss Wiggs," she said, "I have just received a letter from the editor of the magazine. He says that your story is the best he has ever read, and he will take a little longer to read it."

BUREAU OF NEATNESS.

New Department For Train Men Established by Erie Railway.

The "bureau of neatness" is the latest department that has been added to the Erie railroad system, and it is expected to play an important part in the future appearance and conduct of conductors and train men, says the Chicago Record-Herald. The new bureau is the idea of W. L. Derr, superintendent of the Erie at Jersey City.

The plan is to provide each train man and conductor with a monthly ticket of admission and privileges of the bureau. By using this ticket the employee need not suffer from trousers bagging at the knee. Hereafter the bagginess will give way to neat and deep creases, for the ticket will entitle the holder to have his trousers pressed and cleaned twice each month, and it will be "up to him" if they sag midway when the superintendent comes around.

In order that the trousers may not lead in the procession of neatness the train men and conductors can have their tickets punched for six cleanings and pressings of other articles of wearing apparel. To round out their happiness they will not have to pay a dime to get the dust and mud removed from their shoes, but will be given twenty-five free shins.

The tickets are sent the men with Superintendent Derr's injunction to "be very careful about your personal appearance."

Sale ribbons tomorrow. Dodd's Big 5 and 10 cent store. 1t

STEVENSES' BUSY TIMES.

Lively Advent of Babies in a Home at Matteawan, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stevens of Lincoln avenue, Matteawan, N. Y., have decided to address a joint letter to President Roosevelt telling him of a series of interesting events which have taken place in their home since April 5, says a special dispatch from Fishkill Landing, N. Y., to the New York Times.

On that day Mrs. Belgian Hare, who makes her home with the Stevens family, became the proud mother of five little Hares. The curiosity and delight attendant on that addition to the household had hardly subsided when, on the following Tuesday, thirty-six white chicks were hatched out in the incubator which had been Mrs. Stevens' special care.

All these responsibilities were added to on Good Friday morning when Mrs. Tabby Cat, also a Stevens house resident, carried two coal black kittens triumphantly into the dining room. One was named Black Friday by the appreciative owners.

The best surprise was kept to the last and was a ten pound baby boy. The parents will name him Theodore Roosevelt Stevens and in their letter to the president will inform him fully of the recent doings in Lincoln avenue, Matteawan.

First Census Wags.

The original schedules of the first census are now contained in twenty-six bound volumes, preserved in the interior department. For the most part the headings of the schedules were written in by hand. Indeed, up to and including 1820 the assistant marshals generally used such paper as they happened to have, ruling it, writing in the headings and binding the sheets together themselves. In some cases merchants' account paper was used, and now and then the schedules were bound inside of a newspaper.—W. R. Merriam in Century.

Use Your Opportunities.

Today is the time to pursue fortune. The hour at hand is the one to make use of and the chances within our grasp. These we should seize. "Tomorrow" is never here, and putting off the good we may have for a questionable future is not the best wisdom. Therefore, use today. Do the kindness before you, the duty next you, and tomorrow will take care of itself.

THE RAILWAYS

A COLUMBUS PAPER WRONG IN SAYING

These Conductors Were Ordered to Spruce Up—Postal Figures—A Raddish Bed.

Sunday's Columbus Dispatch printed the following:

Some old and long established rules on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad that the trainmen supposed had long since been "dead letters," have been suddenly revived, and made to do very active service from all reports.

The ruling is of most concern to the conductors who have been told to "spruce" when taking their runs. Not a few of the conductors were in the habit of thinking that it was wholly unnecessary for them to put on an extra shine when taking out their trains and they lapsed into careless ways. This did not strike some one at the general headquarters and an inspector or two was engaged and specially engaged to travel over the lines and note the negligee bell puncher.

It is said that the inspector was much surprised at the appearance and dress of some of the conductors in charge of the fine and elegant coaches of the Baltimore and Ohio, and when his report reached the main headquarters there was something doing instantly.

Taylor Spence, who has been in charge of the early morning Baltimore & Ohio train from Zanesville to Columbus, that reaches here shortly after 8 o'clock in the morning and leaves about 5 in the evening, and who has been on this run for many years, was accepted as a model of neatness and taste, and the other conductors were advised to model after him as much as they could.

Positive instructions were given to the old conductors, such as Capt. John Doyle, Billy Williams, Butterworth, McDonald, Beecher and Lamb to appear on their trains only after the most careful toilet with time no object in doing their "priming."

First of all they were told that "boiled" shirts were absolutely indispensable, and no toilet was complete without cuffs. Clear collars were also prescribed and on the subject of shoes they are to be kept polished like unto mirrors.

The inspectors also made a leading suggestion that a cleanly, well shaven face was an important factor in making a conductor popular with the management of the road. Various other little points on band-box uniforming were also brought into the clear, and now every conductor on that line could easily be mistaken for a bridegroom.

The foregoing is a very unjust reflection upon several of the best and most popular conductors on the entire L. & O. system. The fact of the matter is every one of the men named in the Dispatch article passed inspection, but it is said that some others were asked to spruce up a bit. One would have to travel many miles to find more competent, more accommodating and better appearing men in the railway service than Conductors McDonald, Beecher, Williams, Doyle and Butterworth.

Something Everyone Doesn't Know.

A well known railway postal clerk in talking to the Advocate today drew out of his pocket a little memorandum book upon which he had been doing some figuring and he hurled these astounding figures at the newspaper man:

"A railway mail clerk on a full R. P. O. line averages over 155 miles a day for 365 days in a year. He averages 7 1/2 hours a day in the car and with his other duties he averages over 10 hours a day the year 'round, and gets less pay (net) than mail carriers who work but eight hours a day, or any other person who works for the government, considering the class of service. The average of killed and wounded in the R. P. O. service in the past 25 years is greater than in the regular army. Statistics show this to be true. Railway mail clerks get from $600 to $1400 a year according to length of the run."

Mr. Shields' Raddish Bed.

James Shields, the B. & O. engineer who lives in East Main street, had a fine raddish bed at his house and he had been watching it anxiously during the past few cold days and nights. Feeling certain that Jack Frost would pay him a visit Sunday night, Mr. Shields carefully took one of his wife's table clothes and spread it over the bed laying a stone on each corner. It is claimed that Mr. Shields told a friend at the station today that the stones were not only frozen to the cloth, but that every blamed raddish in the bed jumped up and stuck tight to the cloth.

It is said that within a short time eight Pan Handle firemen will be promoted to the right side of the cab. The company is receiving a large number of new engines and traffic is very heavy. A great many of the men are being used in construction work.

Pan Handle No. 20 made a record-breaking run from Columbus to Pittsburg one day last week, the 193 miles were covered in four hours and fifteen minutes. This included a stop for changing engines at Denison.

Conductor Charles Dowd, who had his left leg broken in the Chicago Junction wreck some time ago, which has been giving him so much trouble, is in better shape now than it has been since the accident. The perambulating splint has been removed, and Mr. Dowd is now able to get around comfortably with the aid of crutches.

RADIUM IN CONNECTICUT.

Mineralogist Says He Knows Where There Are Traces of the Proper Ore. C. P. King, a mineralogist now of Boston is the possessor of a tiny tube, of glass containing a rough, whitish powder of gray, a bit of chloride of radium, says the New York Times. There is only a fraction of a gram in the tube, yet when it is taken into a dark room it glows with a strong greenish light. It pierces two thicknesses of paper easily.

"This was sent to me," said Mr. King, "by the lady who discovered radium. She is Mme. Sklodowska Curie, the wife of a professor of chemistry in a French high school."

The present cost of radium chloride is $7,200,000 a pound. As to its production at a price that would bring it within the reach of ordinary use, Mr. King says, that depends on the finding of beds of uranic ores.

"There are uranic ores in Connecticut," says Mr. King. "I shall go down there prospecting. I think I know where the traces are to be found."

Meanings of Several Names.

Asia means morning or east; Europe, evening or west; Australia means lying to or in the south; hence we may consider that these names mean eastern land, western land and southern land. Asia is a Greek word; Enron is a Hebrew word; Australia is a Latin word. The origin of the word Africa is uncertain. Some conjecture that it is a Semitic word meaning "Land of Wanderers."

Unaffected.

Miss Speitz—Of course, no one could truthfully speak of her as pretty. Mr. Lovett—Well—er—perhaps not, but she has such a quiet, unaffected manner.

Miss Speitz—Yes, but it has taken her several years to acquire it.—Philadelphia Press.

Filbert—Yes, he often asks five and six times a month for it.—New Yorker

Dainty Oxfords

Brother George's Shoes are no longer correct. Women's lasts have swung back to a love for daintiness. One's foot is to be clothed as carefully as one's hand, and the higharched, full instep foot looks its prettiest in Oxfords or Colorials. They are very correct—but keep on the side of daintiness in choosing the style.

But Oxfords Must Fit—That's the Gham.

Yet two-thirds of the Oxfords old do not fit. We perfect the fit of all; and therein lies the success of this shoe store at Oxford selling.

Ladies, who have looked about, tell us that there isn't a stock of Oxford's in town to compare with ours.

All widths and sizes—and the best of selected leathers, $1.00 up to $2.50.

No Sunday Game at Detroit.
Detroit, Mich., April 27—No base ball was played in Detroit Sunday owing to the vigorous action on the part of ministers and laymen, and the possibility of the sheriff enforcing laws. Sunday games scheduled for Detroit by the American league have been called off.

American Association.
The game scheduled for Indianapolis Sunday with the Columbus team, was played at the latter city, owing to the injunction against the game, secured by the ministers of the Hoosier capital.

The game was a pitcher's battle and was featureless except for the batting of Turner, the Senator's third baseman, who, single handed won the game for his team with two home runs to deep center field. The first was a fluke of the rankest kind, the ball taking a bound over Coulter's head and rolling to the fence, but the second was a clean hit for four bases. McMakin started the game for Columbus, but on account of injury was replaced by Wolfe, the Senator's crack south paw. Ford pitched a fine game for Indianapolis. The attendance was 7100, including many from Newark. Columbus won 2 to 1.

SIR CHENG AS A FATHER

Chinese Minister's Devotion to His Motherless Family.

SONS SPEND MUCH TIME WITH HIM

They Are to Be Dressed Like American Boys, in Sailor Suits—His Daughter Will Retain Native Costume—China's New Representative Talks of Chinese Women and Homes.

Sir Chentung Liang Cheng, the new Chinese minister, is a man of imposing appearance, of fine physique, says a writer in the Washington Post. His face is what would be termed handsome from an oriental standpoint. With a powerful frame, showing a strong muscular development, there are combined an intellectual countenance and a stateliness of manner which speak the finished scholar, the polished diplomat. Yet there is nothing but straightforward, kindly simplicity in his gentle and eager courtesy. His dress is rich, but quiet.

About him as he came forward to greet a newspaper woman visitor hung two fine boys, one nine and the other seven years of age. It was a surprise to American eyes to see the familiarity with which these little fellows surrounded their father, romping about him just as our children do and playing with a toy pistol which they had just acquired, to their evident delight. Pride and affection showed so plainly in his eyes when looking at the children that one could not but be touched by the sight of the motherless ones clinging about their father, absorbed in their toys and utterly oblivious of the duties of state, which harassed him on every side.

The boys wore tan American shoes, but were dressed in somber robes, which showed their mourning for their mother. Looking at the little fellows in their dark gowns, a mist came into his eyes as he spoke of the sorrow which had come into their lives and how great pride their mother took in dressing them.

"But I mean to dress them as American boys," he added. "It gives them so much more freedom. I will have them in regular sailor suits, they will be taught English, how to ride the bicycle and all of the athletic sports which will tend to their development. The oldest boy is Arlu, the younger is Ardi. My daughter has not been well since her arrival, due, I think, to the change from Chinese to American food. She is sixteen and will retain the costume of her country."

"The young gentlemen who are with me will enter Harvard probably in the fall. American inventions are rapidly obtaining a hold in China. Recently a telephone was put up between the summer palace of the emperor and the foreign office, so that a dispatch could be called for in a moment without the trouble of sending a courier. Electric lights are also in use."

"While I do not think that there has been any increase to speak of in the number of Chinese converts to Christianity, yet I must say that in the establishment of hospitals and other charities there has been much good done by the missionaries."

"Women's position in China has not changed to any extent. We do not have them go about in public or attend to business—the woman 'interviewer' is an unknown quantity at home. She stays at home, and I must say that as a rule the home is a happy one."

"While our marriages are entirely arranged by our parents, yet you will be surprised to find that the vast majority of them are happy—an unkind husband is almost unknown in China. So much respect we have for our parents that we accept their judgment as of necessity being the best, and each side does its best to make the marriage a happy one."

"Our girls are receiving more education, however, than in former times, and there is now a large college for women in one of our large cities."

"Washington, I find, has become one of the most beautiful cities of the world. I expect to enjoy my residence here more than I can express. Being fond of society, I am sure I shall find the capital delightful."

The minister tells with pride how the boys do not wish him to get out of their sight and what trouble he has in getting away even to attend a formal dinner. The other day the older one was hanging about his father to prevent his going out on some business. The younger one, looking at him with a touch of humor remarked: "What makes you worry papa so? You stick to him as if he were candy."

MADAME ZADOC PORTER'S SEVEN YEARS A STANDARD

Boyish Zangwill.
Zangwill for a man of such subtly intellectual parts can on occasion descend to the most boyish frivolity. The daughter of a certain rabbi was told that she was to sit next to him at a dinner party. For days beforehand she trembled with mingled anticipatory delight and dread and sought to sharpen her wits by dwelling on every learned subject, possible or impossible, which she thought he might be likely to talk about. Imagine her amazement when as soon as dinner was begun Zangwill drew a small india rubber doll from his pocket and began telling fortunes with it, talking the whole time nothing but the most irresponsible nonsense. She said afterward that she felt very much like the girl who was taken in to dinner by Tennyson and hung with trembling rapture on the inspired words which were to fall from his lips. "I like my mutton in clunks," said Tennyson.

Mayor of World's Fair City.
When President Roosevelt reaches St. Louis for the special purpose of dedicating the world's fair grounds and buildings on April 30, he will be tendered the freedom of the city by the mayor, Rolla Wells. Mr. Wells was elected mayor by the Democrats on a reform platform two years ago and has still two years to serve. He is a large steel manufacturer and is quite wealthy. His father was formerly an extensive owner of street railway property, and Mayor Wells was brought up in that business. Several years ago he invested his capital in the steel industry and has thrived thereat. Mayor Wells is popular with all classes of citizens, and his administration has so far been very successful. As mayor of the Mound City during the Louisiana Purchase exposition he will probably come prominently before the public.

Four-fifths of the people of the Southern states live on farms, but not one-third of the land is being tilled, says Hoke Smith.

Aunt Dinah's OLD VIRGINIA Herb Tea

FOR MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS.
Every woman who has a daughter knows well the anxiety and worry which always comes at that period of life when girlhood merges into womanhood.

AUNT DINAH'S OLD VIRGINIA HERB TEA is of the greatest assistance to nature in bringing about this change without disturbing the natural functions of the system. It will keep the mother's mind at ease, and it is a strengthening tonic and prevents that tendency to overwork which so often endangers the lives of girls at this critical point in development.

This Herb Tea is a mixture of corresponding value and assistance to mothers and daughters at this period. The use of the Tea at the time of the change of life, prevents endless pains and worry. A woman who enters the "flowering of life" with sound knowledge that the change has occurred, who have learned the experience of many grateful mothers who have used it.

Pitt as a Spendthrift.
How did Pitt spend his income and get into debt? During the greater part of his life, after he had come to man's estate, he was in office, and his income was about 110,000 per annum. He did not entertain, he did not gamble, he neither hunted nor shot, and yet at the end of seventeen years of this income of 110,000 per annum he was hopelessly in debt. That he was careless is very possible. Still, considering that his income was equal to 120,000 per annum now, how in the name of wonder did he spend it?

This is all the more mysterious, as he appears never to have paid his tradesmen. I have often seen it stated that England ought to be proud of one of her greatest statesmen having died poor. Neither Pitt nor England had reason to be proud of a statesman, enjoying an ample official income, dying heavily in debt and making the payment of his tradesmen's bills dependent on parliament voting a sum to meet the liability.—London Truth.

THE A. A. Griggs COMPANY

AMUSEMENTS

Good plays like wine improves with age. This is certainly true of that marvellously successful melodrama, "Human Hearts" which Manager Nankerville offers for the eighth year. The company to be seen in the play this season comprises all of last year's favorites and whenever a part could be improved upon, the change has been made, and it is promised that never before has this beautiful play been so well presented. "Human Hearts" gives a pure, wholesome lesson that touches the heartstrings in the pathetic scenes and excites the risibilities in the humorous ones. The pathos and comedy are so well blended that the audience is in tears one moment and convulsed with laughter the next. The scenic equipment of "Human Hearts" will be perfect in every detail, so it is said, and the management has done everything possible to insure a first class performance. Auditorium Wednesday night, April 29.

Dover-Gaither.

Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock, at the Lutheran parsonage, Charles Benjamin Dover, a well known glass blower employed at the Everett works and Mrs. Lola E. Gaither were married by Rev. J. C. Schindel.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for Zanesville, where they will spend a few days with friends and relatives before returning to their home in this city.

The constitution of Mexico forbids monopolies.

Saturday night, May 2, is to illustrate the colored race's power to please in song, dance, comedy and every line for which it has thus far made itself famous. Mr. Hill has put together as

THE TEMPEST COMING.

The acme of realism is reached in the great storm scene of "The Tempest" which comes to the Auditorium, May 12, with Louis James and Frederick Warde in the principal roles. Experts in stage craft have pronounced the mechanical contrivances which simulate the tempest, marvellously ingenious. Other scenes include the Enchanted Isles, which seems to be pervaded with an atmosphere of fairyland and the Colar Cave with its distinct creation of the scene painter's art. Mr. James will be seen in the character of Caliban, a favorite of his which he has long desired to enact, while Mr. Warde will essay the attractive role of Prospero, in which Mr. Warde should be seen at his best.

PLAYS ROLE OF WAITER.

Secretary Moody's Joke at Expense of Officious Porto Rican.

A good story is told on Secretary Moody while he was visiting San Juan, Porto Rico, writes the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

While the Dolphin was in the harbor of San Juan she was visited daily by the natives. One of them, feeling thirsty, turned to a man in white and wearing a sort of naval cap and said, "I'll have a drink of water." The man hurried away without a word and soon returned with the water, which the native drank. The man in white then took the glass back to the cabin.

While he was gone an American who had seen the whole procedure said to the native, "You ought to have tipped that fellow." The native smiled in his pocket for a coin, but mildly protested, "Why should I?" And the American said, "Because that was Mr. Moody, the secretary of the navy."

It was true, and when the secretary emerged from the cabin the native's profuse apologies were made as only one of the Latin race can make them, while the secretary laughingly tried to put the Porto Rican at his ease.

FRIENDS WONDER

If Dr. Willoughby Miller, Formerly of This City, is Included—A Strange German Order.

A number of Newark people are considerably interested in a dispatch sent out from Berlin, as follows:

The Saxon court seems to be bent upon making itself more ridiculous still, in direct connection with the much-talked of dentist episode. Three well known American dentists, who have been practicing for years in Berlin without anyone ever thinking of molesting them, have now received official notification that their American diplomas as doctors of dental surgery are not valid in Saxony and that they must cease their practice. The dentists propose to begin damage suits against the Saxon Government.

Dr. Willoughby Miller, an old Newark boy, has for a number of years been practicing in Berlin, and if the dispatches are correct he may be included in the number under the ban. Dr. Miller has been very successful in his practice in Berlin. It is said that all of the leading dentists of Germany are Americans, or at least graduates of American colleges.
